Report of the President

This is my third and last report as President of the Beth Israel Hospital. I value the honor greatly and appreciate deeply the privilege which has been accorded to me through my having been given the responsibilities of this office.

In my report last year, I told you that our top priority had been to increase the number of beds available for patients who wished to obtain their hospital care at our hospital. I expressed the hope then that, based on the progress already made, we would in the year following, reach the point where the entire planned bed complement for medical and surgical adult patients would be placed into service.

I am glad to report to you that this goal was achieved.

During this year we reached this peak complement of 340 beds in operation.

This means, of course, that we have treated more patients and given more days of hospital care than ever before in our history. We reached a total of 105,618 days of care. So far as private and semi-private medical and surgical admissions are concerned—the area of greatest demand at our hospital—the increase in patient days was 2,971.

The amount of care for this group of patients given in this last year, 1955-56, as compared with the year 1953-54, was 8,557 more patient days—an increase of 17.7%.

Our ability to do this was dependent directly upon our success in providing adequate nursing care for expanded activities. This task was achieved in spite of the fact that one of the greatest national, state, and local problems in medical care is the inescapable difficulty offered by a growing demand for nursing care which greatly exceeds the supply. We have met our needs for nursing care this past year, so far as numbers and quality are concerned, more completely than in many years before. Among the outstanding reasons for this are the advances that have been made in the attractiveness of Beth Israel Hospital as a place to practice nursing. This has given us the largest group of registered nurses on our staff we have ever had. Furthermore, a significant proportion of this nursing staff is availing itself of the opportunities and stimulus which the hospital is offering for in-service and continuation education.

The achievement and promise of our School of Nursing have increased steadily. This past year 38 students graduated. A majority of these are now employed on our staff. This past September we admitted 61 new students in the School—the largest class in our history. In order to provide adequately for this class, structural changes in the laboratory and other teaching facilities became necessary and were made. We now have the largest total enrollment that we have ever had in the School of Nursing—152 students. Three years ago this figure was 104.

Once again, our experience, like that of comparable hospitals throughout the country, has been that the cost of providing hospital care has increased. We have kept pace with prevalent salary scales in the Boston area and have absorbed the impact of increased Federal and State minimum wages. Also, hospital care continues to become more complex. Last year, for example, there was a further increase over the year before in the number of laboratory tests done per patient day. We have, therefore, found it necessary to reflect these costs by increasing the hospital rates somewhat.

Operating expenses for all our activities of patient care, both free and paid, teaching and research, totalled $4,307,000 for the fiscal year ended September 30, 1956. Our total operating income was $3,332,000, thus leaving an initial operating deficit of $975,000. This was virtually completely taken care of by the subvention from the Associated Jewish Philanthropies, by income from our Endowment Funds and other donations and subsidies. The subvention from the Associated Jewish Philanthropies has been approximately the same amount in each of the past three years. This year it was $617,971, and provided 14.3% of our operating costs. Two years ago, a subvention of similar size constituted 17.5% of our operating expenses. This annual subvention is of crucial importance in making it possible for the hospital to make the magnificent contribution it does to community welfare through providing free care to those who require it, and through our education and research activities. Without this support, our hospital would become a different institution indeed.

Sidney R. Rabb, President

Probably the greatest source of pride and satisfaction to many of us, is the fact that thousands of patients obtain the medical and hospital care they need at the Beth Israel Hospital, on the basis of their need—regardless of their ability to pay the costs. This year 11,256 patients were treated in the Out-Patient Department and on the ward service at less than cost or absolutely free. The calculated dollar value of free care this year was $895,000.

Again I have the pleasure of expressing our gratitude to the Women's Auxiliary for their continued support of many vital activities in the hospital and also for their never failing readiness to undertake new tasks and responsibilities. This year they added to their list of special projects the complete refurbishing of Kirstein Hall, the residence for the students in our School of Nursing. This expenditure of $35,000 replaced furniture, some of which was almost thirty years old, and resulted in our being able to offer our student nurses a most modern, comfortable residence comparable with others.

Our Home Care Program has completed its second year of service to patients. The average number of patients under care in their homes was 25—the equivalent of a full ward. The demand for this service increased steadily and is continuing to do so. This new form of medical care has undoubtedly achieved the stature of permanence in our community. In the third year of operation, we expect to serve an average of 40 patients at one time.

Here too the Women's Auxiliary has been essential, because it has provided the funds for this demonstration of modern medical care efficiently and effectively provided to patients requiring long term services.

We all recognize that the strength and quality of the work of our hospital depends upon a vast complex of people who work in and for it. The lay leadership, which is representative of the community which looks upon the hospital as its own is vested in its Board of Trustees. One of my special privileges has been that of seeing this Board and its Committees function so ardently and effectively in dealing with the many problems of policy which are the inevitable lot of voluntary hospitals with our responsibility and standards. During this past year, standing and special committees have had 61 meetings!

One of the most striking examples of what I have in mind is the superb and painstaking job done by the Ad Hoc Committee on Space Needs. This Committee had 17 official meetings, walked dozens of miles in the hospital, worked with several hundreds of pages of documents, and presented the Board of Trustees with a closely reasoned report of inestimable value. The recommendations of this Committee for the provision of additional facilities needed for the conduct of our work are now being studied carefully and a plan of implementation being developed.

I should like to pay special attention also to our medical staff which has, this past year, intensified its effort through committee activity, to help us uphold the highest possible standard of patient care.

These years have been wonderful ones for me because I have been given the opportunity to learn more of human endeavor for the protection, preservation and restoration of health. I am grateful to my colleagues on the Board of Trustees, to Dr. Sheps, and to all the members of the staff for what they have done to help us press forward jointly with our complex, fascinating, and vital task.

Sidney R. Kobl

Report of the Executive Director

In reviewing the highlights of the year covered by this report—October 1, 1955 to September 30, 1956, it is apparent that the primary function is the care of patients—the best use of staff and facilities—the highest quality of health service for diagnosis, treatment, disease prevention, and rehabilitation. In these terms, this year has been one of further progress.

Day by day, the skill, interest and devotion of many hundreds of people built the complex interdependent web of patient care, education and research upon which our hospital was founded and upon which is based the size, shape and stature of our contribution to community health, welfare, education and understanding.

This past year we treated over 20,000 patients either as in-patients or in the Out-Patient Department. We gave 105,618 days of hospital care—8,738 more days of care than two years ago. In spite of increasing costs we were still able to provide essential medical and hospital care to thousands of patients in our Ward Service and Out-Patient Department at less than cost or even absolutely free—thus fulfilling our charitable mission as desired by the community which supports us.

Our seven primary services of Medicine, Surgery, Obstetrics, Pediatrics, Psychiatry, Pathology and Radiology have continued their highly effective programs of patient care, education and research, ably supported by the various other specialties.

During the course of this year, we have had the great pleasure of welcoming Dr.

David G. Freiman to our full-time staff as Pathologist-in-Chief. He is Director of the Pathology and Laboratory Service and Clinical Professor of Pathology at Harvard University. He came to fill the vacancy left by the death of Dr. Monroe J. Schlesinger, and we already know full well that the tradition of scientific eminence established in this service will be carried on with renewed vigor into new fields.

We were all sorry this year to lose Dr. Sydney S. Gellis as our Pediatrician-in-Chief when he resigned to accept the challenge of professional responsibility of greater size and scope as Chairman of the Department of Pediatrics at Boston University Medical School and Chief of Pediatrics at the Boston City Hospital. He came to us in 1950 to organize our Pediatric Service on a more comprehensive basis, and he has set an enviable standard of effectiveness in the activities of this service in the Out-Patient Department, for bed patients, and in the care of the newborn on our Obstetrical Service. The developments in pediatrics which he guided have played an important role in rounding out our interdependent functions as a general hospital.

The Medical Executive Committee has given careful study to a number of continuing and important problems of hospital policy affecting professional services. On some of these matters, such as radiology and anesthesia services, recommendations have already been made to the Board of Trustees and action has been taken. On others, recommendations are in the course of preparation. It is gratifying also to report an increase in the activities of the Staff Council. Members of our medical staff, appointed to special committees by this group, gave a great deal of time and thought to important aspects of patient care. This helped materially in producing better understanding of present-day problems and in providing hospital and medical care of high quality. It also led to a number of significant improvements in our services.

Cecil G. Sheps, M.D., Executive Director

It is with great sorrow that we record the following deaths on our medical staff:

Dr. Louis Fischbein,
Associate Member in Medicine
Dr. Hans Fulder,
Courtesy Staff in Medicine
Dr. Edward M. Nathan,
Associate in Proctology

We have received requests from Harvard and Tufts Medical Schools to increase the scope and size of our teaching responsibilities. While it is gratifying indeed to have this manifestation of high regard for the level of patient care which forms the framework for such educational activities, we have not always been able to provide this additional teaching because of the limitations of our facilities and the scope of our patient care activities.

The creative investigations of our research departments have proceeded apace, shedding light on important problems of human disease and helping to keep the treatment of our patients at a high level of quality. With the steadily increasing national interest in the support of scientific research, more funds became available for such purposes. Our research facilities are now taxed beyond their capacity. Thus it becomes necessary to develop policy as to the areas of research activity which should be given emphasis and preference in a hospital like ours.

Our Nursing Service has continued to make satisfactory progress. We have been able to come closer to filling our quotas for nursing personnel than ever before. This has meant that we have been able to treat more patients than ever before, and also to give them better care. Our School of Nursing is in the front ranks as an educational nursing institution in the state, and is rapidly being filled to capacity. Miss Verena Edmunds, who was promoted from Assistant Director to Director of Nursing Service and the School of Nursing upon the resignation of Miss Anna J. Kalmanowitz early this year, has continued to carry forward needed progressive developments in these fields.

The contributions of social service work in the care of patients is being steadily and increasingly recognized. To meet the demand for more such service on behalf of the hospital's patients, two additional positions were established. The standard of performance of our department is such that it is being asked to increase the scope of the opportunities it provides for field work placement and supervision for regular students in social work, and also for special advanced students. Among the group who spent last year with us was a medical social worker from the Edinburgh Medical School in Scotland who did a year of special study with us as a Rockefeller Foundation Fellow. During the year Mrs. Bess Dana, who had given brilliant leadership to the department for seven years, resigned in order to devote herself to teaching. She has accepted an appointment at Simmons College School of Social Work as Associate Professor of Social Economy and as Director of Medical Social Work Program. She was succeeded by Mrs. Beatrice Phillips, former Assistant Director of this department, who is carrying forward the traditions of service and quality with which she has long been identified.

This was the second year of operation of our Home Care Program. Not only has the program grown in size, but it has evolved a type of interaction and professional teamwork on behalf of the patient which is attracting wide attention among the health professions. It has clearly demonstrated to all who care to look that it provides a form of medical care and a type of continuity which is essential to the development of an effective and economic health program for our community.

The constant cycles of obsolescence of physical plant and changing needs for facilities call for a constant program of alterations and replacement. Many such projects were carried out under the guidance of the Building Committee.

This was the fifth year in which a significant installment on our pointing and rebuilding program for the older portions of our main building was completed. During these years approximately $200,000 has been spent for this purpose. This task is now almost finished. Among the other important projects carried out were the complete modernization of a nursing station in the old building as a guide for future alterations, vital alterations in laboratories and teaching areas for the School of Nursing, and the relocation of the Purchasing Department in the basement of the South Service Building. This relocation has reclaimed to very active use space which had been used less effectively and has also proved highly successful from the point of view of the function and administration of our purchasing and stores activities.

After a careful study by our administrative staff, it was decided to see whether the housekeeping work done in the public and office areas of the hospital at night by our employees could be performed adequately by an outside cleaning company on a contract basis. In March we effectuated a contract for such services which saves the hospital several thousand dollars a year.

Our public relations activities have been stepped up with special emphasis on developing a warm and reassuring reception for patients and helping patients to understand the hospital and its functions.

A number of changes have taken place on our administrative staff. The position of Assistant Director left open by the resignation of Mr. George W. Brooks was converted into two positions of administrative assistants. Appointments to these positions were given to Mr. Paul Kaufman and Mr. Charles Stumpf.

Mrs. Rose Blayman was promoted to Chief Admitting Officer, filling the vacancy left by the transfer of Miss Natalie Nathan to the newly-created position of Patients' Accounts Manager. Miss Florence Lynch was promoted to head the Housekeeping Department upon the resignation of Mrs. June Malone.

When Mrs. Lillian Reiner resigned as Director of our Dietary Department in order to settle in New York with her husband, we were fortunate in being able to appoint to the position Miss Anne Hurevitz who came to us from the New York Hospital.

The achievement and stimulating challenge of our program of service to humanity is the reward of all of us who are related to its endeavors. Last year about 3,000 persons were involved in the care of patients, in education and in research, which includes, in addition to our regular employees, medical staff, students and volunteers. To all of them, to our administrative staff and to the members of the Board of Trustees, all of whose efforts are joined together to make possible the work of this hospital, I should like to express grateful thanks.

REPORT OF PRESIDENT, WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

In looking back upon the role which the Women's Auxiliary has played in the history of the Beth Israel Hospital, we find that we have made constant progress and have always been ready to assume any responsibilities assigned to us.

Since 1926 we have not only raised funds for the Hospital and given thousands of hours of volunteer services, but we have played an important part in bringing to our members an understanding of the contributions of the Hospital to the health and welfare of the community. The reliable and efficient women who are officers and directors and who serve on our thirty-eight committees have enabled the Auxiliary to give ever-increasing service.

There are over 8,300 women in the Auxiliary. This number includes the loyal women from our branches in Dorchester-Mattapan, Everett, Greater Lynn, Hull, Malden, and Roxbury.

Our fund-raising committees—Annual and Life Membership, Remembrance Fund, Gift and Thrift Shops, Bibs, and Luncheon—have made it possible for us to finance many capital improvements and to contribute to medical research, the premature nursery, social service, free out-patient care, life-saving emergencies, new medical equipment, and our newest project—HOME CARE. Home Care is now in its third year under the sponsorship of the Women's Auxiliary from monies raised at our Annual Luncheon.

This year Kirstein Hall has taken on a new look. The $35,000 contributed by the Auxiliary has made the nurses' residence more attractive and livable for our student nurses.

The Auxiliary is interested in the welfare of every department in the Hospital. We sponsor a program on behalf of our professional staff—teas for doctors' wives, recreational programs for house staff, nurses, dietitians, and an annual personnel party. Through our scholarships to student nurses this year, we have assisted in the recruitment of the largest entering class in Beth Israel history. We are happy, also, to assist the Nurses' Alumnae Group with their post-graduate scholarship program, which encourages Beth Israel graduates to further their professional education.

Volunteer service has always played an important role in our program. Under the supervision of the Director of Volunteer Service, 689 women gave 57,000 hours this year to the Gift Shop, Coffee Shop, Blood Bank, Admitting Office, Patients' Library, Patients' Service, Surgical Dressing Units, and Musical Therapy. In addition, over 600 women are engaged in specific Auxiliary activities. They carry on our projects in the Thrift Shop and Auxiliary Office—they decorate patients' trays on holidays, bring toys to the Pediatric Unit—or they work on our committees.

Twenty-five of our members have taken a course given by our Department of Public Relations in order that they may know and be able to interpret the Hospital to those interested in taking our "Hospital Tours."

The Junior Auxiliary, under the guidance of Senior advisers, contribute to the Tumor and Cancer Clinic. This year, in addition to volunteer service within the Hospital, they are managing our Thrift Shop on Wednesday evenings.

The year 1955-1956 has been stimulating and challenging. With the devoted and loyal efforts of our officers, our chairmen, and their workers, the Auxiliary will continue to perpetuate the ideals of our founders and will continue to assist the Beth Israel Hospital carry on its outstanding service to humanity.

ONLY a small proportion of the services of a hospital may be likened to hotel services. In addition to good housekeeping and fine food, a first-rate hospital must provide up-to-date and reliable laboratory and x-ray services, skilled technicians, professionally trained staff, and an atmosphere of evaluation and inquiry which inevitably leads to a high quality of patient care.

The rapid application of new scientific discoveries is greatly facilitated in a hospital which has an active program of teaching and research. This strengthens the hospital's ability and readiness to serve. While all of its facilities and all of its skills may not be called upon constantly, they are always ready when needed, and are often life-saving when required.

The patient sees only a few of the many services which are provided in his behalf. Yet each activity, whether it be carried on in the laboratory or in the laundry, the classroom or the clinic, is directed toward a common goal — better medical care and finer health services.

A young diabetic patient demonstrates to her mother and aunt how she has been taught on an orange to administer insulin to herself. She is now steady and self-reliant.

While the patient undergoes a difficult examination, her concern is eased by the warmth and sympathy of a professionally trained nurse.

A young patient watches and listens as a student nurse prepares him for his hospital experience.

Contributions

The following contributions of $100 and over were made during the fiscal year, October 1, 1955, to September 30, 1956. Space does not permit listing the more than 1,000 contributors of smaller gifts totalling over $8,500 also received during this period.

The Hospital was also the recipient of books, flowers, medical equipment, toys, and magazines for our patients from many thoughtful members of the community.

For all of these donations—whatever their size, whether in cash or kind—we extend our grateful thanks.

Our Volunteers

Equally as important as material gifts to the operation of the Hospital programs of patient care, teaching and research are the services rendered by our Volunteers. Without their active participation in so many areas of the Hospital, an extra burden would be placed on our staff and employees, as well as on the budget of our organization.

During the period of this report—October 1, 1955, to September 30, 1956, 681 volunteers gave 57,236 hours of service. Included in this group were members of our Male Volunteer Corps whose record of loyal service is one of which we are very proud.

Although special recognition is given in this report to the following volunteers for the unusual number of hours of service which they gave during the past year, we take this opportunity of expressing gratitude to every man and woman who gives of his time in the interests of the Beth Israel Hospital—and this includes not only direct services to and for patients, but Gift Shop, Coffee Shop, Thrift Shop and Auxiliary workers as well as our many Board and Committee members whose guidance and assistance are so vital to our community effort.
